

THE YODEL

EASY DOES IT

The soul should always stand ajar, ready to welcome the ecstatic
experience

Emily Dickinson

Its hard to tell sometimes if you're coming or going. Its like when you're driving down the highway. You're sort of in that "I've been down this stretch of road a million times" mode. You find yourself approaching your destination, but don't remember having gone by all the familiar landmarks you normally see every day. "That's so weird" you say to yourself. "I'm where I wanted to be, but I have no idea how I got here".

I've been crashing through life this way lately. By Friday, I can barely remember what happened on Monday. All I can think about is the week-end. "Just get me to the week-end" I say. "I promise I'll stop and smell the roses. I'll appreciate all the 'little things'..." Yeah, yeah...what I really mean is "Here comes the week-end, I'm gonna put so much on my plate I won't remember having dessert". By the time Sunday evening rolls around, panic sets in. "How did I get here? Where did the week-end go?"

Well, this time I've decided it WILL be different. I mean, if a 9&1/2 month old baby can find a discarded piece of paper the most fascinating thing she's ever seen, who am I to argue? Like they say, 'its the little things'. Once in a while, you just need to pull over and check out the sights. Even if you think you've seen 'em before, maybe you really haven't SEEN them.

So, now its your turn. Pull over, grab a cup o' joe and enjoy another issue of the Yodel. Inside you'll find info on the Halloween party, those long lost OSAT hats and the Gratitude Dinner.

Don't forget, we are still taking nominations for the three BOTS (Board of Trusted Servants) positions that will be open for next year. Please let any of the current BOTS (listed on pg. 2) know who you think would do a great job serving the club. This is an excellent opportunity for someone with lots of energy, dedication, and organization to help guide the club. Please remember to get permission from the person you wish to nominate!

Nov. 7-9, Fri-Sun: The Enchantments The plan is to leave Friday afternoon/evening 11/7. Limit will be 6 additional OSATers. Leader/Contact: Rik A at 234-1770

Nov. 27, Thurs: Thanksgiving Appetite Builder Please join us once again as we gleefully skip (or slog, depending on the weather) up Mt. Si. This is a yearly tradition, and it definitely builds up one's ability to gorge on tasty treats later! The hike starts at 7a.m. Rik has the details. Leader/Contact: Rik A at 234-1770

Dec. 20-21, Sat-Sun: Mt. Hood Leothold Coulour and hogs back. Lets meet on the summit. Leaders permission. Must have snow experience. Leader/Contact: Bob C at clmbhard33@aol.com or ph: 768-9819

Jan. 1, Thurs: New Year's Day Blast Once again, join Rik as he ushers in the new year with a lovely jaunt up Mt. Si. The hike starts at 8a.m. Rik has the details. Can't make any promises on the weather though...dress warm! Hot Chocolate afterwards is a must! Leader/Contact: Rik A at 234-1770

Six Months in Asia...(as opposed to Seven Years in Tibet)

by Linda Z

(Editor's Note: Linda Z has taken off for Asia and looks forward to revisiting some countries and exploring new ones. She e-mailed me the following info, and looks forward to lots of correspondence!)

I'll be traveling around, but these are the places I'll check for mail. I absolutely love getting mail. It's so exciting to go to a general post office in Asia and find a card or letter with my name on it. I read my mail over and over when I'm lonely. Letters are hugs for weary travelers.

People can contact me through the PO in Bangkok:

Zahava, Linda

GPO - Poste Restante

Bangkok, Thailand 50000

and -- from Dec - March

GPO - Poste Restante

Kathmandu, Nepal

My itinerary is sort of as follows:

Oct. 14 - early Nov. -- Indonesia

Nov. 14 - Nov.30 -- Chaing Mai, Thailand traveling around Thailand and somewhere else (maybe Laos)

Dec. 14 - January or Feb. --India (Northeast and Southwest)

After India -- Nepal, Tibet...

The flight home starts in Kathandu and stops over in Bangkok and Jakarta...

While I'm in Chiang Mai, Thailand (11/14 - 11/30), I'll have email available-- I'll let you know the best address later. I will probably have email in Kathmandu also. I'll scout the Himalayas for OSAT outings.

I'll be back mid-April

Thanks -- and lots of love and hugs

Thanks to Tiger Troops

OSAT received a note from Washington Trails Association volunteer coordinator Julie. "On behalf of WTA and all your fellow trail users, THANK YOU for your terrific work on the Tiger Mountain work parties...Everyone's help means so much in terms of trail survival...Krista said she'd take out OSAT at any time! Lots of work was accomplished. Thank you so much for your enthusiasm and dedication. I hope you will come out again with us soon!"

Where its at...OSAT Hats

by Allen S

I apologize to everyone for not keeping you posted, but here is a little OSAT hat update.

Some of the hats have been shipped and are en route. The rest will be ready and shipped in a week or so (meaning they should all be here by Oct. 10). The turn around time from the manufacturer has been good. It just took a little while to get everything together and approved. Once the hats arrive I'll be calling those who have ordered. I will be using the phone numbers that were written on the orders. If you live outside the 206 area code, and you haven't heard from me by Oct. 15, please call me (Allen) at 206-548-0182 so we can discuss dispersal options, or if you have any other questions. Anyone who wants to order a hat may do so buy calling the same.

Thanks to all of you who placed an order. I look forward to wearing my hats, which I wouldn't be getting if you hadn't committed. Really, thanks for letting your money float so long.

Congratulations to those intrepid souls who decided to take the Mountaineers Basic Climbing Course this year! Graduates include Doug H, Wendy, Carol, Roy, Patty, Merry, and few others we probably forgot to mention. Way to go! Now you can sign up for Bob's intermediate course, right?

Five Years Ago in OSAT

by Rik A

OSAT organized its first retreat in the Fall of 1992. The spectacular Peggys Pond area was selected. In spite of iffy, cold weather with snow showers, 22 OSATers showed up including Dave N and family with the help of a pair of llamas. A wonderful candlelight meeting highlighted a weekend in which the glacier climbers slogged up Mt. Daniel while the rock climbers scrambled up Cathedral Rock. A touchy situation arose when the ranger showed up at camp and advised that everyone could be fined $50 each for breaching the party limit of twelve in the wilderness. In the end, he proved to be a friend, and left the group with a warning.

Later in September Shirley and Terri hiked the Pacific Crest Trail from Snoqualmie to Steven's, enjoying the autumn foliage and completing the trek in fresh snow. Over a dozen OSATers traveled south to hold one last Camp Muir meeting (#6), "including a young man with 30 days of sobriety who did not know about the meeting until he was almost there". Fourteen showed up for an Icicle Creek rock climbing seminar and got "pumped".

Organization of the club advanced during the latter part of the 1992 climbing season. Twenty-one members attended the September "business meeting" (what we would now call the "club meeting"), of whom 14 are still active in OSAT today. It was decided to have such meetings on a monthly basis. Prior to this the business meetings had been held on an ad hoc basis. Expenditures were approved for an ad in the Mountaineer Bulletin and to purchase the first club equipment at the Mountaineer Equipment Sale. The idea of turning OSAT into a non-profit, tax-exempt organization was first discussed, and a call went out in the newsletter for anyone knowing how to go about this. (It wasn't until three years later that non-profit incorporation and tax-exempt status were actually obtained.) Responsibilities for club communications were broadened with Teresa taking charge of newsletter distribution and Linda Z running the hotline.

As the Tiger Mountain Thursday AA meeting prepared to move to JB's (now IHOP) at the end of October, it was decided to start up a Sunday morning meeting on the mountain in hopes of providing an AA meeting in a wilderness setting throughout the winter. We were still ending meetings with "Keep climbing mountains and don't slip in between", but for the most part OSAT looked and felt much as it does today.

Camp Kitchen

by Tracy M

Recently I began collecting information about climbing Mt Fuji since travel so frequently to Japan. It is not a particularly elegant climb, and not at all technical, yet the 3776 meter volcano is one of the most widely climbed (and photographed) mountains in the world. I ran across a Japanese version of the 10 essentials while browsing the Mt. Fuji web site (<http://www2.shizuokanet.or.jp/usr/kazutaka/hit.html>) and thought I would share it with you.

Remember that this is an English translation.....

"The Necessities of Mountain Climbing"

- * jacket
- * mat
- * an umbrella
- * a raincoat
- * chicken box
- * stick
- * one's pocket a flashlight
- * tissue
- * handkerchief
- * towel
- * rice ball
- * hat
- * head ache tablet
- * a change of clothes

I was absurdly amused by this list and wondered what was meant by *chicken box, and why they would recommend a *rice ball. Then, last week while on layover in Nagoya, I noticed a vitamin drink in a convenience store called "Energy in Body Charge". The label reads, "A special drink to supply carbohydrates equivalent to a rice ball." With this in mind, I offer you a traditional recipe for Rice Balls...

Inari-zushi

(sushi rice inside soft fried tofu pouches)

note* fried tofu pouches, called aburage, are sold in packages of 10 or so and are available at Uwijimaya or most Oriental food stores.

For the aburage:

Blanch 10 aburage cut in halves in boiling water for 1 minute to degrease them. Squeeze dry and open each half, breaking the network of tofu inside pouch.

Simmer them for 40 minutes in a covered pan containing

- 1 1/2 C chicken broth or dashi (dashi is Japanese soup stock)
- 1/4 C sugar
- 1/4 C soy sauce

Drain and gently squeeze dry.

For the shari (sushi rice):

Rinse 3 C uncooked rice (medium grain white works best) in water until water runs clear. Allow rice to sit 1/2 hour. Place in heavy pot.

Add 3 1/2 C water, cover and bring to boil on medium high heat.

Turn heat to high and boil for 2 minutes.

Reduce heat to medium and continue cooking for 5 minutes.

Reduce heat to lowest setting and continue cooking for 15 minutes.

Turn heat off and allow rice to set for 10 minutes. Have seasoned vinegar ready for seasoning the rice while it is still hot.

Fold into rice 1/3 C seasoned rice vinegar (use only seasoned rice vinegar)

1 T at a time while fanning the rice until it is room temperature (about 15 minutes). This method allows the vinegar to evaporate and adds a sheen to the rice.

For the Inari-zushi:

Fill the pouches with seasoned rice and fold over the bottom of the pouch to enclose the rice.

I would recommend packing these in a lightweight but sturdy container to prevent them from becoming smashed. Maybe something like a *chicken box.

Please send your camp recipes and hiking gourmand ideas to Tracymann@compuserve.com. or snail mail them to Camp Kitchen, P. O. Box 30573, Seattle, WA 98103.

Bachelors & Bachelorettes.....

The house in South Park where Joe and Bob live is definitely the bachelor pad. Picture this, two grown men being led astray by three children, two boys and a girl. It's amazing how much life little people can bring to a big empty house. Experience has shown that these small people with endless energy and attitude help me to grow, love and understand life. It certainly makes being a bachelor dude a lot easier.

oops.....At the Saturday night OSAT campfire the bachelor dudes announced a Halloween party. Well we screwed up! :::::taking my foot out of my mouth::::: Doug and Susan (no longer bachelor dude and dewdette) are having the bash! I'll be there with bells. Sounds like a great costume. Anyone for twister?

Other stuff.....

The campout RULED this year. Always cool to meet new folks and say hello to the regulars. ☺ Anyone for Leavenworth next year?? We went rock climbing the day after in the burning sunshine!!

In going over Step Eight in the "Twelve and Twelve" we came across the word "tossport." What does it mean?

A. According to Webster's Ninth Collegiate Dictionary, a tossport is the same as a drunkard or a sot-something most of us are quite familiar with.

After the first draft of the Big Book had been written, what was the most popular choice for a title?

A. The leading contender was "The Way Out," though this popular title was eventually eclipsed by "Alcoholics Anonymous" when it was discovered that there were 12 other books listed with the Library of Congress titled "The Way Out."

Women who tend to dress in a hurry are inclined to undress in a hurry, too. And women slow to dress are slow to undress. It's known that most men have a preference in this matter. Our Love and War man is studying it.

October gardening tips:

Time to get those bird feeders ready for winter

The first frosts are just around the corner, so be alert and ready to cover or move vulnerable plants indoors.

Tie up or trim climbing roses.

Gladiolas and dahlias should be brought inside for winter storage.

Keep an eye out for moles, which become active now.

Ode to My Rescuers

by Darlene

I was reading through the "Yodel" last month, when I stumbled across my name.

Big, bold, black print it was,

I couldn't believe my eyes,

"Oh, No!" I exclaimed,

"They did not write about that fateful day I had,

up there on that mountain so steep,

When I slid into the tree well and landed on my feet."

I felt embarrassed and so ashamed that I hadn't remembered to say,

Thank You to my OSAT friends who helped me on that day.

So please accept apologies and Thank You's all at once.

I am so grateful for your help. I need to let you know

The warmth, the sharing, the caring that was there beside that tree,

As we waited for the rescue teams to come and pick up me.

Being self sufficient is a mountain climbers creed.

Others made it to the top, I wish it had been me.

Instead, I was the one who needed all the help

Now, care taker is the role that I'm most comfortable with

So I set aside my ego and I let go all my pride.

To let you know that gratitude is what I feel inside

Seminar Report

by Shirley R

Learning to Lead on 5th Class Rock. October 12, 1997, Icicle Canyon, Leavenworth. Led by Shirley R. and Steve F. Take a small group of highly motivated people to the crags with a bunch of rock climbing gear, and what do you get? You get Anita and Roy leading their very first routes, placing gear and clipping in like artists-in-training; Merry leading her first gear routes ever (including one without a top rope), and Bryan and Chris whetting their pro-placing skills on intermediate level routes.

For a change of pace in late afternoon, we drove elsewhere and practiced some more challenging (5.8-5.10) top-roped crack climbing. All in all it was a fun and productive day, and it didn't even rain!

God, grant me the Serenity

'The relationship of height to spirituality is not merely metaphorical, it is physical reality. The most spiritual people of this planet live in the highest places. So do the most spiritual flowers...I call the high and light aspects of my being spirit and the dark and heavy aspect soul. Soul is at home in the deep shadowed valleys. Spirit is a land of high, white peaks and glittering jewel-like lakes and flowers...People need to climb the mountain not simply because it is there, but because the soulful divinity needs to be mated with spirit.'
