

THE YODEL

COMING SOON! A NEW LOOK...

Thick waters show no images of things; Friends are each other's mirrors, and should be clearer than crystal, or the mountain springs, and free from clouds, design or flattery

--Philips

I love the Winter Olympic Games. When I was growing up, I secretly dreamed of being an Olympian. I didn't even know what sport I would compete in. It didn't matter. I just wanted to be a part of the experience. I still admire those athletes for their drive and dedication. I find myself watching events that normally I wouldn't know anything about, and am enthralled with their amazing mental and physical capacities. I sit here with my 13 month old daughter watching as she is transfixed by the figure skaters. She follows each and every turn, every amazing jump...each spin...the graceful lifts. Then comes the daring of the lightning fast downhillers...the heart-pounding drive of the speed skaters...the sheer guts of the ski-jumpers. We both watch with wonder. I still am in awe with what the will and determination of the human mind and body is capable of.

In 2002, our daughter will be 5 years old. Perhaps we will get to show her the thrill of experiencing the games, in person, in Salt Lake City. In the meantime, we watch from afar. Win or lose, we cheer them all on.

We may not be in Nagano, but we've got world-class fun and adventure right here with OSAT. If you are looking for the thrill of victory and the agony of "da' feet" you've come to the right place!

KCM & DS--Marina S., Editor e-mail: sandsmar@sprynet.com The next deadline for The Yodel is March 27.

12-step meetings

Tiger Mountain

Please Note: Until the time changes again in April, the Tiger meeting will be at the IHOP in Issaquah. (It's easy to find, just take exit 15 of I-90, take a left and you'll see it on the left). Diehards can still climb the mountain, then meet up with the rest at IHOP. The meeting time will change to 7pm.

Time: Thursdays @ 7:30 PM & Sundays @ 10:00 am

Location: The Tiger Mountain Trailhead is on the south (right) side of the High Point Way Exit (1st exit east of Issaquah) off I-90. Make a reverse U-turn onto the road parallel with the Interstate. Park as close as possible to the west end of the road.

Contact: Thursdays -Bill L 206-789-8758
Sundays - Dave W 425-869-0460

Notes: Newcomers should not try to find this meeting alone. We meet in the trees just below the summit of West Tiger 3. The hike gains 2,000 feet in less than 3 miles. Bring warm clothes and a flashlight for the evening meeting.

Carkeek Park

Time: Mondays @ 7pm

Location: Take I-5 to Northgate, take the Northgate Way exit, and head west. Keep going past Hwy 99. When you cross Greenwood, N.gate Way changes to Holman Rd. A block or two later, look for Art's Foods, and travel thru the parking lot. You'll find 100th and 6th. Park near there, or in Art's parking lot. The group meets at 7pm in the parking lot, then walks down together into the park.

Notes: This park has a beautiful view of the Sound. Be sure to dress very warmly, and bring candle lanterns and headlamps, as it is dark and usually cold.

It's Time Once Again

by Bob L—Membership Chair

Hello everyone. It's that time of year again to break out the checkbooks and renew your membership. You have until April before your name is removed from the Yodel mailing list so act now. I have a request when filling out your renewal forms. Please take the time to fill out the optional information on the back of the renewal form. The "Interests" section is of special importance. This will help us to plan activities by tracking the interest level for a given activity and finding individuals who are willing to be leaders. If you have already sent in your membership renewal and didn't fill out the optional information please take the time to fill it out and mail it in.

If you take a look at your mailing label there's a few things to notice. The first is you now have a new membership number. This can be found on the top left of the mailing label. Next, if you do not have an R following your number you do not have a signed release and indemnity agreement on file. A signed release form is required for anyone who wishes to participate in OSAT activities. The last thing is the top right has the year for which your dues are paid through. If it reads 1997 you need to renew your membership by April to continue to receive the Yodel. At the end of April we will be creating a membership list to distribute to everyone. I hope 1998 is a great year for everyone. I look forward to seeing you out on the trail!

Making the call

by David C

Hello brother and sister Osater's, Last season I arranged to have a sign-language interpreter come up to the Thursday Night Tiger Mountain AA Meeting. Flyers were made, the word got out, and it was a great success! Since then, I've been bombarded by the Deaf community with requests to do it again. Therefore, this season I'd like to do it again, only this time with a little more regularity. My goal is to have an interpreter go up on the first Thursday of each month we hike Tiger Mountain. I'd take care of getting the information out to the Deaf community and arranging for the interpreter and such, but I need help from all of you with the money part, so I'm making the call.

What I'm looking for are people who could commit to contribute monthly money toward this endeavor. The cost of the interpreter is $45.00 per night. I would be happy to contribute $5.00 a month. If I could find eight other people who would do this, my mission would be complete. You could pay more or less, all contributions will help, no matter what the amount.

We're talking about six months, that's only six payments, or you could just pay one lump sum. I have an interpreter who would love to do the job, and he says that if no one shows up, he wouldn't charge us (not the normal practice for sign-language interpreters). In the unlikely event that this should happen, all money for that meeting would be reimbursed to the donors. It's a no loose situation.

Please help me out with this. If you are interested in helping, please contact me at 206-623-7857, or you could e-mail me at dax@oz.net. Thanks so much from me and the entire Deaf community,

The Jimmy D Hinkhouse Memorial Library will open soon! This new (and hopefully regular) feature in the Yodel will introduce you to the vast variety of reading available in the library's nearly 500 items.

As soon as the new BOTS approves the operating procedures and policies, books and magazines will be available for circulation. Thanks to those of you who offered suggestions as policies were being drafted. A categorized list of the books has been completed. For those with access to the web, the draft policies and the lists are available at <http://www.geocities.com/yosemite/2899/osatlib.html>. There is a link from the OSAT home page.

The ad hoc library committee (Dick W, Karen C, Dave N, Chris N, Rik A) placed pockets and cards in all the books, and stamped each for identification. We also secured the donation of a bookshelf from Boeing Surplus which is suitable to store about half of the collection. This has been a long process, but hopefully our efforts and forethought will guarantee both wide availability and continued integrity of the collection.

The majority of the collection is climbing guides and books about climbs and climbers. There are about 70 books in each of these classifications. A history classification has about 20 additional books about climbs and climbers which focus on 19th century climbing or comprehensive treatment of a particular mountain. Among these categories, about a third are devoted to Washington and the Pacific Northwest, about 15% each to the rest of the US and the rest of the western hemisphere, about 10% to Europe and Africa, and about 15% to Asia and the Himalayas. The remaining 15% cover global topics. There are also about 20 annual climbing journals.

We have about 10 field guides, 6 travel guides, 20 books on climbing technique, and 10 on skiing and snow shoeing. The safety-related collection includes 12 books and a set of all but 8 of the 46 editions of Accidents in North American Mountaineering from 1948 to 1994. The reference and miscellaneous mountaineering section includes about 30 books, and there are over 60 magazines.

The collection also includes about 90 books on recovery and related topics, and another 15 on running, including 2 videos! Sorry, no mountaineering videos ... yet! ...although thanks to Tom M we have a video of Jimmy talking to a class of elementary school students about Africa and mountaineering.

In coming Yodel "Armchair Mountaineer" columns, we will publish lists of the books, and highlight a few with brief summaries. Keep climbing mountains (vicariously) and don't fall asleep!

Five Years Ago in OSAT

by Rik A

The first OSAT New Year's Day hike (1992) was on Mt. Pilchuck, but wintery conditions led to moving the 1993 event to Mt. Si. The trail was icy, and there were many horror stories related by the 15 or so who made it to the summit meadow area. Chuck was the only one to tackle to Haystack, but the weather was beautiful and "visibility was extreme."

The second annual Meeting in a Snowcave was led by Greg. Three caves were dug, twelve attended a meeting in the larger one, and eight spend the night. Everyone enjoyed themselves, although they just barely got home because of road closures due to avalanches.

A business meeting in December featured Greg A's Denali slides, and in February the club was treated to Jim & Shirley's Ecuador slides. The first official OSAT T-shirts were designed and ordered. Jim, Steve, and Karen also began making slide presentations about OSAT to treatment centers.

The Thursday evening meeting moved back to the "new" Issaquah IHOP (previously JB's), and the OSAT North people began meeting at Granite High School parking lot where they decided where to have their meeting, usually someplace off the Mountain Loop Highway.

Eat The Perfect Food! As we move through the new year, the time of health and fitness resolutions, and into the new millenium, where people are stopping to take stock in the punctuation of the continuum of time, and a new century, it occurs to me that; A) we are healthier than we have ever been, and B) we are globally connected in a way that has never been possible before in history, and we are sharing information with great energy and vigor.

Now I am one of those types who likes to have their cake and eat it too. I want to hear the latest and watch the news as it happens, but I also want to restore the old fashioned toaster that retails at the "Survival of the Fittest" retro shop for more than a new one, and learn about the ancient art of Japanese paper making from the few surviving sensais who still know the art.

Recently I have been reading about the "emergence" of a "new" health food...the soy bean. Trendy health food stores carry a variety of soy products including soy powder, soy burgers, tofu, soy cheese, soy milk, etc. Health spas across the country offer a variety of soy dishes to attract the health conscious client or celebrity. Starbuck's offers soy milk to their savvy customers. Our own Chris Flannigan-Linderman (just one example of how perfect a body can be) is a soy guy! This new information is great, but let me tell you, it is nothing new. Out here on my Japan trips, soy is the main stay. Has been for centuries. There are studies that show diets rich in soy help reduce the risk of cancer, heart disease, and high cholesterol build up. It has been attributed to longevity and smooth transition through menopause for women, as well as overall high complete protein recognition for the body. Here's the deal. It's simple, time tested, and packs easily so there's no excuse. If you want to eat the perfect food, eat soy beans.

Most Sushi bars in Seattle offer a little dish of soy beans (called edamame) to Japanese customers, but you need to ask for it: it won't be on the menu. In Japan, all sushi bars have Edamame as a pre sushi snack. The soy bean, as a whole food, offers the best source of the most perfect food in the world. And it is delicious! You can buy them fresh from Asian food stores, or frozen in packages, from health food stores or at Uwajiamaya.

Blanch them in boiling water for about 2 minutes, drain, and sprinkle with salt. You eat them by sliding the pods through your teeth and capturing the beans. Discard the pods. If you are below tree line, composting will work. Up on top, of course, pack 'em out!

CORRECTION: In the previous issue of the Yodel, the following recipe was listed without it's key ingredient: Tahini. So, here it is...

Hummus with Tahini

3 C cooked garbanzo beans
1 C liquid from garbanzo beans or water
½ C tahini
5 T fresh lemon juice
4 cloves garlic, minced
1 t salt
1/8 t cayenne
1/4 C chopped fresh parsley

In a food processor, process the beans with 1/2 the liquid and lemon juice.

Add tahini, garlic and seasonings. Add as much of the reserved liquid as you want to get the desired consistency. Add the parsley. You may also use a blender or, if blending by hand, a potato masher. Keep in the fridge. It also freezes well.

Please send your camp recipes and hiking gourmand ideas to Tracymann@compuserve.com. or snail mail them to Camp Kitchen, P. O. Box 30573, Seattle, WA 98103.

Off Belay

by Bob C

BUTS, BITS, BURPS, BOTS?

This past January OSAT welcomed three new members to the Board Of Trusted Servants (BOTS). The board made up of five members basically take care of the political, financial, and directional responsibilities of our club. Can YOU name all five members? And who are these people. Well I had the wonderful opportunity to have lunch with one of the newest members. Patti Flanagan-Lindemam was gracious enough to answer a few questions (not any like Clinton answers).

Off Belay: How did you find OSAT?

PFL: I moved here with my husband Chris from Leadville Colorado in April '96 after working for Outward Bound. We wanted to find more people like ourselves that combined recovery and climbing. We couldn't find anyone to come out to our tent for a meeting. I heard Kim G. make an announcement about the OSAT climbing course at the Magnolia Meeting and said "there are people like us here."

OB: How do you feel about being elected to BOTS?

PFL: (she laughs) Well, we haven't had our first meeting yet, but I'm looking forward to doing service work for the club. Addressing issues and making decisions will be challenging and fun. And it helps me to feel apart of the group.

OB: How do you integrate climbing and recovery?

PFL: Can't imagine one without the other. They both help me to become more aware of my relationship with God. When on the Rainier climb last summer, I just kept saying thank you every step of the way and before I knew it we were there!

OB: Do you have any climbing goals?

PFL: Well for 1998, not turning back on climbs unless weather or something stops us. Just not to allow fear to stop me. Crevasses scare me (me too). Climbing in Peru in the future.

OB: What are your personal goals?

PFL: Be more of a human being than a human doing. We are sometimes get our schedules overloaded. Better at accepting myself for who I am and what I'm doing.

OB: Describe one of your best moments in OSAT?

PFL: We were staying at this little hotel last November in Mexico when we down there to climb Orizaba. We went to their room for our nightly meeting. We started jumping on the beds and horsing around, it was so fun and felt like real friends, and that unconditional love.

Thank you Patti for sharing your thoughts and experiences with us!! It was way to fabulous that she did this.

Sex, Health, & Nutrition Bytes

- A Glenwood Colorado wrestling coach is on trial for picking up one of his students by the testicles and dropping him (OUCH). The examining doctor indicated that the boys testicles were so swollen after the incident, he couldn't examine him. (Sex weekly)
- Sex weekly also reports that the more household chores a husband does, the more likely his wife is to report having good sex. (guys get back to me on this one will ya!)
- Work stress can pack on the pounds-or take off too much. A survey of more than 1,600 workers revealed that 35 % either dramatically lost weight or gained it because of job stress. Work hassles caused 57% to have insomnia and 48 percent to have headaches.
- Herbal medicine is not "experimental" in Germany. A report from there states that to treat depression, prescriptions for the herb St. John's Wart (hypericum) outnumber by six to one prescriptions for Prozac.

Catherine The Great?

by Rik A

Dave N organized a snow shoe/ski trip up Mt. Catherine at the end of January. Our group briefly exchanged hugs etc in the NB McDonald's parking lot with the OSAT group headed up Mailbox, and drove up I-90 for about 2/3rds the elevation and about twice the mileage as our hard-core compatriots.

Thanks to Dave's foresight in picking a beautiful day, with El Nino pushing temperatures at the Pass into the upper 40s, the snow was well consolidated. Dave was aboard his Bushwhacker skis, as the rest of us slogged along on our webbed shoes.

The ski areas were remarkably quiet, and no one else was on the route. Although one party member suggested we were in "extreme snow shoe" territory when we traversed a fairly steep slope, the mixture of well consolidated crust and heavy-but-shallow powder we encountered simply added to the variety of woods, meadows, traverses and moderate slopes we hiked. Although conditions were less than ideal for Dave's ski descent from the summit to Nordik Pass, by the end of the long traverse through the Hyak cross country ski slopes more than one of his companions wished they could turn their shoes into skis.

Snow shoe excursions seem to be bringing out a lot of OSATers this winter. Although this particular trip did not have quite as many as Will's Rampart Ridge (MRNP) adventure, attendees were no less enthusiastic. Participating were Chris & Wendy, Rod & Carrie, Pete & Lynn, Rik, and Joe.

The Journey Continues...

by Bob L

The first convention I attended when I got into recovery was the world convention for the fellowship of which I am a member. The theme for the convention was "The Journey Continues". For months after, a friend and I would always remind each other that it is a journey, not a destination.

As I sat in the kick-off meeting for the climbing course last year, I could not help but picture myself on top of Mt. Rainier. The thought of standing on top of the vision that had been the focus of my dreams for such a long time overwhelmed me. Again, those familiar words were echoed by Bob C. It is not the destination that is important, the lessons learned and people we experience along the way are what really matter. Just as before these words rang true. I met some of the most loving and caring people during the climbing course. It never ceases to amaze me to see those giving away freely what has been given to them. It was an incredible gift. As luck would have it, I managed to summit Mt. Rainier on my first attempt. That was just the icing on the cake.

A couple of month's ago I was out on a climb to Silver Star Mountain. On summit day we got a late start and Doug H. and I were post holing badly. We hit our first turn around time and as we headed back down to camp, I made a passing comment about coming back to even the score. Doug reminded me that it is not a good idea to keep score with the mountain. The mountain always wins. Again, I was reminded of the journey. I had a terrific time with a great bunch of guys. We coined it the "Men Behaving Badly" trip. It was a great weekend.

The last year has been one of the best in my life. The people I have met and the things I have experienced will be with me for a long time to come. I hope that everyone finds his or her chosen path on which to travel and always remember "It is a journey, not a destination."

Pico de Orizaba

by Kim G

Yes, the summit was awesome. There, you know the ending. Like a good book ruined by someone blurting out "who done it" and the last pages closing secrets. But amazingly enough...in mountaineering, the summit is the goal but isn't always the best part. What was it about our trip to Mexico that was so special? As I sit and reflect there were so many moments that speak out. Was it the travel partners of Chris and Patty F.L., Mel, Sally and me? Was it the inability of ANYBODY in our group to put a coherent sentence together in Spanish? Perhaps it was the people we met, the time we spent and roads we traveled. Yes, that's it. Let me share some of my story with you.

At the base of Pico de Orizaba, the third highest peak in North America, lies the Piedra Grande Hut at about 13,900 some ft. The hut can house several dozen climbers, can be noisy, smoky and ridden with rat poop. But it's the best place to hear about the mountain, listen to the stories, pick up Spanish phrases and try to sleep amid the storm of celebration as successful climbers return.

Thank goodness there's an outhouse there. Past years people just used rocks, etc. to do their duty. One day Chris returns from the outhouse and proclaims he saw a mouse in the "pit" of the toilet. First of all, who in the heck looks into the pit of those toilets? Anyway...Chris fondly watched the mouse race over, grab some toilet paper and race off to make a nest. As we all sat gagging, Chris went on to say it reminded him of "Schindler's List" where the children hid in the toilet. Well, he said, this is Schindler's Mouse. So it became that when we went to visit the outhouse, we casually said we were on a mission to visit Schindler's Mouse.

Summit morning brings apprehension. This mountain is going down...perhaps. The weather outlook is marginal. The mountain isn't particularly technical but does have it's route problems and new snow caused some frustration on the lower part of the glacier. But, looking out in the dark of the night and seeing a fantastic lightening storm surrounding us below was incredible. The slow march allows lots of brain time to think...about nothing, pain or everything. Count your steps, rest, rest, breath, breath...positive thoughts are everything. As you already know, Sally, Chris and I summited. We got some photos and looked at the ocean of clouds which hid the valleys. A bit nippy up here but all in all, very nice. We arrived back at camp to heavy, split pea soup fog and cheers from new found friends. Wow. Thanks God. Thanks OSAT. If it wasn't for all of you, this never would have been possible.

See you climbing the mountains. Keep an eye out for Schindler's Mouse.

'The relationship of height to spirituality is not merely metaphorical, it is physical reality. The most spiritual people of this planet live in the highest places. So do the most spiritual flowers... I call the high and light aspects of my being spirit and the dark and heavy aspect soul. Soul is at home in the deep shadowed valleys. Spirit is a land of high, white peaks and glittering jewel-like lakes and flowers... People need to climb the mountain not simply because it is there, but because the soulful divinity needs to be mated with spirit.'
